

NEVER LOST

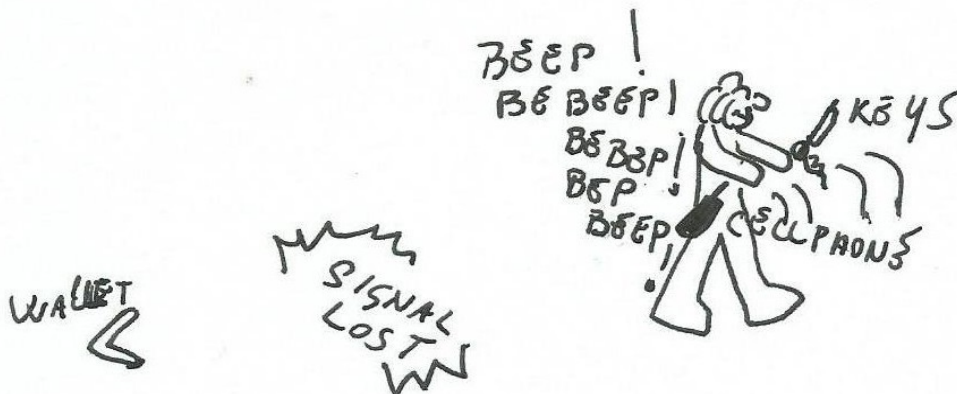

WALLET, KEY RING AND CELLPHONE CAN TAKE CARE OF EACH OTHER

There are three things we always keep with us, but they can give serious troubles if lost. With this invention it's possible to detect immediately if one of the three is being lost or stolen.

The key-ring and the wallet carry a RFID, whereas the cellphone has an application that continuously ping the other two. If one of the three get at least three meters away, then an alarm start being emitted from the cellphone. In fact, if one of the three get too far from the others, it may mean that it has been lost or stolen.

The cartoon that follow show how the alarm is immediately triggered if one of the three is lost.

The next cartoon instead show what happen if a thief try to stole one of the three. We are immediately informed, so that we can take action.
